Tips from the Craft Table:

- When using Blending Brushes, always move from your lighter ink color to your darker ink color. This prevents contaminating your lighter ink pads and keeps your color transitions smooth. It's perfectly safe to go from Crumb Cake to Mossy Meadow or Fresh Freesia to Highland Heather without cleaning the brush in between.

- Any time you're ink blending or heat embossing, protect your surface with Grid Paper. It keeps your workspace clean, catches excess embossing powder, and makes cleanup quick and easy—especially when you're creating multiple layers like these designs.
- This layout really shines when dimension is added thoughtfully. Use Stampin' Dimensionals behind your die cuts and sentiment banner to create depth but adhere your background layers flat. That contrast between flat and raised elements makes the design feel intentional and polished.
